CRQSH Jellyberry is a sativa-dominant cultivar characterized by a sweet, fruity aroma profile with pronounced candy-like notes.

The aroma combines creamy sweetness with fruity nuances and subtle spicy undertones, creating a balanced and layered sensory profile. Sweet confectionery-like characteristics are complemented by mild earthy accents, resulting in an overall aroma that is both soft and expressive.

The flowers are typically dense and compact in structure, displaying rich green coloration and a visible coating of resinous trichomes. Orange pistils provide a distinctive visual contrast and contribute to the cultivar's characteristic appearance. The terpene profile is predominantly sweet and fruit-forward, accompanied by creamy notes and a subtle spicy finish.

Patients commonly describe the overall experience as calming and well-balanced. Reports frequently mention a sense of relaxation and mental ease, without pronounced heaviness. CRQSH Jellyberry is often selected for use during the evening or in situations where relaxation and unwinding are desired. Some patients also report using this cultivar in the context of chronic pain.
